TROUSERS ORIGINATED IN ITALY

First Pair of Bifurcated Garments Was Worn by a Roman Prisoner.

Tetricus, the barbarian, was the first gentleman to wear trousers, says the Boston Journal. He had no heart in the inauguration of the new fashion; he simply had to do it; Aurelianus the Roman had captured Tetricus on one of his raids and determined to carry him in triumph to Rome as one of the spoils of conquest. To make the captive appear as ridiculous as possible, he was arrayed in a two-part garment which in Boston might have been called "pants." Instead of appearing ridiculous, Tetricus seems to have made a "hit," for the garment he wore slowly but surely grew in favor with the people of Rome. We might find the origin of many customs in the same way. It is known that Charles VII. of France wore a long coat to conceal his crooked legs. Not all the French were crooked, but coats became fashionable, nevertheless. The process by which Peter the Great put civilized clothes on his uncivilized subjects had more method in it. The gaiters of the towns were hung with garments of the new fashion and the people were obliged to adopt them or be publicly punished.

Six Men Terribly Scalded.

New York, Dec. 3.—Six men were terribly scalded by the explosion of a copper sugar boiler in the candy factory of D. Auerbach & Sons, in this city, Friday. Some of the victims are not expected to recover, and several of them will in any case probably lose their eyesight.

A SIMPLE TIRE REPAIR.

Punctures in the well known Morgan & Wright tire are mended about as easily as a man would close a hole in his finger with a bit of court plaster. Inside of the inner tube of the tire lies a long strip of patching rubber, like this:

By injecting M. & W. quick-repair cement through the puncture into this inner tube, and then pressing down on the tire with the thumb, like this,

the repair strip inside is picked up by the cement, thus closing the puncture, like this:

Very simple, but—now every rider should remember these two "outs," or he will fail:

Before injecting cement, pump up the tire. If you don't, the inner tube will be flabby, like this, and the cement will not get inside of it, where the repair strip lies. When you have a puncture, get right off. Riding a tire flat, when it has a tack or nail in it, may damage it considerably.
